MRS. GEORGE ACQUITTED.

Was the Woman Charged With Killing McKinley's Brother-in-law.

Canton, Ohio, April 28.—The jury in the case of Anna E. George on trial for the murder of George D. Saxton came into the court room at 10:42 a. m. having agreed upon a verdict. Before the verdict was read the court cautioned the audience that there must be no demonstration. In spite of that there were loud cheers as the clerk read the verdict of "not guilty." A score of women rushed to Mrs. George and shook her hand. Congratulations were also extended to her attorney.

She worked her way to the jury box, took each juror by the hand and gave them a word and a nod of thanks. Then the court said she was discharged and released the jury.

WALDORE'S "HUNCHBACK."

Sheridan Knowles' "Hunchback" will hold its prestige among classical epics, in literature and the drama, as long as the English language is read and spoken, and actors are found who can interpret it understandingly. All characters in the play are subordinate to "Master Walter" who hides the father in the despised cripple, and "Julia" who learns to love and honor him as a true child would a loving father, obeying him even in that which would have wrecked her life.

The "Master Walter" of Mr. McVay at the Opera House last night was an intelligent study of human nature and at no time did he allow the audience to lose sight of the motive of the author's masterpiece. His presence, voice and costumes were all that could be asked.

The "Julia" of Miss Waldorf was as comely like either as the simple country-lad, the gay city-bell, the enraged and insulted woman, or the broken-hearted creature about to be forced into unbalanced wedlock. Both "Master Walter" and "Julia" deserved the hearty applause and repeated recalls they received.

Norval McGregor as "Sir Thomas Clifford" was better in the first act than in the concluding ones, seeming to have lost his vim and energy when it was most needed. "Fathom" was equal to George Hernandez "Touchstone" and though he had little to do he did it well. Miss Ellen Royer as "Helen" was a pretty foil to "Julia" and received her meed of applause. "Camille" at tomorrow's matinee and "Romeo and Juliet" in the evening.
